Service Collaboration to Improve Ulcer Care

Working together to develop standardised wound care services to tackle variation, improve time to heal and reduce amputations

This trail-blazing national conference will focus on the transformative impact of cross-sectoral collaboration within ulcer care services. Take advantage of hearing national updates to improve your wound care strategy and how you can implement the Get It Right First Time (GIRFT) initiative into your service to improve patient outcomes. From strategy to standards; explore how to streamline your service and bridge the gap between diabetic and non-diabetic ulcer treatment pathways. Throughout the day you will:

- Gain new insights into wound care strategies to reduce healing time
- Discover ways to incorporate the GIRFT initiative into your wound care service
- Advance your service by maximising allied health professionals (AHP) and improving early diagnosis
- Combat the disparities between diabetic and non-diabetic treatment pathways

PUBLIC SECTOR PRICE
£149+VAT each
until 30th July 2019
£209+VAT each
after 30th July 2019

Be inspired by hearing case studies of clinical progression and take away implementable ideas for change from:

- Christine Moffatt, Professor of Clinical Nursing Research, University of Nottingham School of Health Sciences
- Martin Fox, Vascular Specialist Podiatrist, Manchester Local Care Organisation
- Dr Paul Chadwick, National Clinical Director, College of Podiatry
